[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY VEDETTE.]

Washington, M'ch 26th.

Many newspapers err in supposing the new income tax law exempts from taxation persons in the civil or military service of the United States, there has been no such decision made by the Commissioners of internal revenue.

Goldsboro, N. C. 21st.

I have the honor to report that I occupied Goldsboro this afternoon with but slight opposition. Gen. Terry's column from Wilmington was at Fairsons depot last night and should be near this place to-night. Shermans left was engaged with the enemy near Bentonville on Sunday, artillery firing was quit heavy during the day and for a short time on Monday morning on Shermans right, of the 17 corps near Mount Olive. On Sunday night there has been some artillery firing today which indicates a gradual approach of Shermans army towards this place, all this being strictly in accordance with his plans, I have no doubt all is well. I hope to have more definite and later intelligence from Sherman very soon and will forward them to you without delay. I find the bridges are burned but otherwise the road is not injured and the depot facilities are very fine. I captured here seven cars, General Terry has captured two locomotives and two cars which he is now using. [Signed]

SCHOFIELD.

New York, March 25th.

The Richmond Sentinel says: It is stated that Sheridan traveled down the river in grand style; his equipage is said to have been elegant, the carriage was drawn by four splendid grays, and were all, of course, stolen from citizens of the country.

The Raleigh Progress gives the following account of the battle of 15th: It seems that fighting began at noon on the 15th and continued briskly till night. On Thursday morning the battle commenced furiously and raged all day. Hardee, with about half of his corps, was entrenched between Black Creek and Cape Fear River, at no great distance from the confluence of these streams, but at a point higher up than that which the enemy crossed the former stream. Here he was attacked by a corps of Sherman's veterans, our works were charged three times, each charge resulted in immense slaughter. We do not understand the position of Bragg, but we are informed that his troops were driven back, which made it necessary for Hardee to fall back to prevent being flanked.

"WHO is that lovely girl!" exclaimed the witty Lord Norbury, in company with his friend Counsellor Grant, "Miss Glass," replied the counsellor. "I should often be intoxicated could I place such a glass to my lips."

WHY do pioneers go before the army? To axe the way.

MONDAY MORNING, APRIL 3, 1865

Convention Prices—Who has won?

The gullibility of a large class of mankind is perfectly amazing and the facility with which any species of legerdemain may be repeated at their expense renews the wonder continually. It is upon this fact, for such it is, that the unscrupulous base their calculations of success and, it may be added, are seldom disappointed.

We have had ample opportunity, during our residence in Utah, of observing the process whereby the latter class among Mormons are enabled to conduct affairs so as to control the people, control the markets, control everything, in short, without regard to circumstances, but always for their own personal benefit and aggrandizement.

How continually have the people been admonished to prepare for a time of famine, which was to fall, like a curse, upon the land after civil war had spent its wrath; to hoard their grain for that day of national disaster, when certain prophecies should find fulfillment and wretched multitudes, fleeing from the desolation of war and the wolf of starvation, should come humbly to ask alms of the happy dwellers in "the chambers of the mountains, who might then, so they were told, give to the fugitive unfortunates of their abundance, as became the favored of the Lord. This, moreover, was to be a very great kindness, for we were assured that by the time supposed, a bushel of grain would be worth a bushel of greenbacks."

Well, the war has run, or well nigh run, its course, but none of the doleful consequences foretold have come to pass. Ruin has followed the track of armies, 'tis true, but this has been only across the land cursed with slavery and pestilential with the breath of treason; there the blight has fallen in all its bitterness, the avenging sword of justice smote and scattered the hordes of rebellion and pierced through and through the vital of their southern land. Such be the merited reward of all, who seek to bring disaster upon the Nation, which is freighted with all the hopes of the future and its heaven-defended promises.

One year ago, under cover of their pretended prescient knowledge, certain religious financiers made an effort to compel the Government to purchase supplies from them upon their own terms, which were so exhorbitant, that, rather than suffer such imposition it was determined to procure our flour from a distant source, though this could only be done with infinite trouble and at great expense. In order to accomplish their purpose that celebrated convention was called which fixed, at Brigham Young's dictation, arbitrary and fictitious values upon all articles of necessity, and it may be left to the judgement of the people whether they have been benefitted by a spurious wisdom, that in a vile attempt to bleed others has deeply wounded their own best interests.

It will not be denied now, that there is an abundance of flour in the Territory to have supplied the wants of its inhabitants, the troops serving here, as well as many thousands besides, but the folly of extortion killed the goose that laid the golden egg and not only lost to the people of Utah the sale of one entire year's supply of subsistence to the troops, but has driven their northern customers to seek a market more remote but less exacting than Utah afforded. Her wise men unwisely thought and boasted, that they had the game in their own hands, and the consequence is that flour is to-day a drug in the market of Salt Lake City. Let them compare results and see who has won and who lost by their folly.

Merchants are looking in vain for an outlet to the superabundant supply, which the wisdom of "counsel" has dammed up in the Territory and holders of flour are keeping their stock in the desperate hope that something may turn up to relieve them of their difficulties. We see nothing, however, to encourage such an expectation. Moreover, a large amount of flour, sent forward last fall for our use, but which failed to reach us, will soon be here to swell the surplus already on hand, and, altogether, we think the prospect exceedingly fair for those, who have rept the reward of their folly in this instance, to learn the useful lesson, that the law of supply and demand will control prices everywhere, in the end, despite all the conventions that ever were, or ever will be, called together. But whether those, who have been duped, will profit by the lesson is quite another question, which we leave them to answer in the future.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.]

New York, March 26th.

The Times special says: The engagements on the 16th between the enemy and one division of Sherman's army was of a very insignificant character. It is thought it was Johnston's design to concentrate all the forces under Bragg and Hardee against one or the other of Sherman's wings, in hopes of crushing them before Schofield's columns could have effected a junction with either, hence Bragg's evacuation of Kinston and rapid retreat to Goldsboro.

The Commercial's army article says: The real cause of demoralization is the utter uncertainty about the future premium on gold. No one dares to venture an opinion as to what its future price ought to be or to what extent it should be effected by peace. No one can give intelligent reason for the extremeness of the late decline.

The same paper, in view of the dry goods trade, says: The trade in cotton goods has been more demoralized during the week than any other branch of business. The understanding about the value of cotton is the principal cause of the difference, added to this, there has been a heavy decline in gold, which affects the market for cotton fabrics equal with all other markets. Jobbers continue to sell large amounts of goods below the prices asked by commission houses, and from the conviction it is hopeless to expect an early recovery of the value. Prints jobbed at 15 to 17 1-2 per cent below the agents prices; the same of delaines and bleached goods. The trade in woolen goods though much less deranged than cotton goods, is paralized by the decline in gold. All goods in which cotton is used are specially depressed, and there is at present a difference varying from 10 to 25 per cent between buyers and sellers in woolen goods.

The Express says: The failures during the week have not been so numerous as was generally expected.

Cairo, March 25th.

A fight occurred between twenty of our troops and seventy guerrillas, thirty miles from Paducah on Wednesday night. Twenty guerrillas were killed, including the leader. Capt. McDougal and Capt. Gregory, on our side, were killed.

New Orleans, March 18th.

The grand movement against Mobile was commenced yesterday by General Benton of the 3d division 13th corps, and Col. Bertram of the 1st brigade 2d corps. Gens. Veeh's and Stoke's brigades are also moving in the direction of Bonnecan.

City Point, 10:30 p. m., March 25th.

To Stanton:—The following dispatch of Gen. Parker is received from Meade.

(Signed) GRANT.

The enemy attacked my front at about 4:30 a. m., with three divisions under command of Gen. Gordon and by a sudden rush carried the line held by the 3d brigade of the 1st division at the foot of the hill to the right of Fort Steadman, and overpowering the garrison took the fort. They established themselves upon the hill to turn their guns upon us. Our troops, on either flank, stood firm, and afterwards a determined attack was made on Fort Haskell, which was checked by a part of McLaughlin's brigade with great loss to the enemy. The 1st brigade of Hartsuff's division, in the reserve, was brought up and a check given to any further advance. One or two attempts were made to take the hill and were only temporarily successful, until the arrival of the 2d brigade, when a charge was made by that brigade aided by troops of the 1st division on their flank, and the enemy was driven out with the loss of a number of prisoners, estimated at 1,600. Two battle flags have been brought in. The enemy lost heavily in killed outside our lines. The whole line was immediately re-crossed and the guns re-taken unimpaired. I regret to add that Gen. McLaughlin was captured in Fort Steadman. Our loss otherwise was not heavy. Great praise is due Hartsuff for gallantry displayed in handling his division, which behaved with skill, in his first engagement.

(Signed.) G. G. PARKE,
Maj. Gen.

City Point, March 25th.

To Stanton: The number of prisoners received by the Provost Marshal is 2,000, taken by the 9th corps, and 500 by the second corps, and there may be more brought in.

(Signed,) GRANT.

March 25th, 7-30 P. M.

To Stanton: I am not yet able to give the results of the day accurately, but the number of prisoners captured proved larger than at first reported. The slaughter of the enemy at the point where they entered our lines and in front of it, was not less than three thousand. Our loss is estimated at 800, and may prove less. Gen. Humphrey attacked them on the left with promptness, capturing nearly 1,000 men, and causing the enemy to return their troops rapidly to that part of the line.

(Signed.) GRANT.

March 23d.

To Stanton: The Richmond papers received here has the following: From dispatches received it appears Hardee's victory on the 16th was a very important and bloody affair. Johnston telegraphed that in that battle the Confederates lost 450 and the enemy 3300. The fight took place at Averysboro, on the Cape Fear River, half way between Raleigh and Fayetteville, and Johnston's defeat of the enemy on last Sunday occurred at Bentonville.

(Signed) GRANT.

The Raleigh Confederate of the 21st says: In the affair which occurred a few days ago between Hardee and Sherman, we repulsed five assaults on our lines and held our position until our object was effected. We lost two guns because the horses were killed. Our loss was 400 killed and wounded, the enemy 4,000.

The Times special of the 25th says: Lieut. Morgan, an escaped Union prisoner, left Fayetteville on the 16th, the day of the reported first battle, at which time a portion of Sherman's army was crossing Cape Fear River and moving North. A skirmish occurred on the 16th between the 2d division of the 14th corps and a small body of rebels.

Washington, March 25th.

The Petersburg Express says: Grant's trains were moving Saturday night towards the left of his line. The weather is fine.

New York, March 25th.

Among the witnesses before the rebel Senate to inquire into the condition of the Confederacy, was Gen. Lee. He said it would be a bad policy to evacuate Richmond, as Virginia troops would not go into North Carolina, and they had not troops to last untill the summer if war was to be carried on, and the least of evils would be to arm 200,000 negroes; but they should be freed. It would depend on circumstances whether they would succeed by arming slaves; but they could at least carry on the war another year, and as we cannot continue the war through another campaign, I think it the best policy to make peace on the plan proposed by Stephens. The people and country ought to be saved further sacrifice. As to the inquiry if peace be not made before spring whether he would take command of the armies, with unlimited power, he would take any position to which his country called him; but he did not think he could save the cause now, and no human power can save it, and he thought Stephen's policy the best now.

Fort. Monroe, March 25th.

The following from Newbern has just reached here via the Albemarle canal: Schofield's forces, which moved out from Kinston, entered Goldsboro on the 21st meeting little resistance, capturing a large amount of property, including 40 railroad cars, two locomotives, guns, etc. A portion of Sherman's forces, which moved from Fayetteville, met the enemy on the 21st at Mount Olive, where quite an engagement ensued. The enemy were overpowered and flanked and retreated in confusion towards Raleigh; while Sherman entered Smithfield, half way between Goldsboro and Raleigh. Sherman, Schofield and Terry are in hourly communication with each other and are pressing the enemy closely. Prisoners taken, admit that Raleigh must fall. Sherman's wagon trains have arrived at Kinston. The railroad and bridges will be repaired so that cars will run to Goldsboro and Raleigh from Newbern in a few days. The utmost enthusiasm prevails in the army—the troops are sweeping all before them. Terry's forces captured a number of cars at Farston depot, near Goldsboro.

Newbern, N. C., March 21st.

Parties from the front say that canonading was heard all of Sunday and there are indications of an engagement at Goldsboro between Sherman and the enemy. It is reported at head-quarters that a brigade of the enemy, with artillery, on that day endeavored to cut their way to our lines and deliver themselves up. The canonading might be a conflict among themselves.

Great quantities of supplies have gone forward to Sherman. A rebel officer says that Sherman is executing a two-fold move, each of which will bring forth great results if he is successful, and of his success there is not much doubt.

City Point, March 25th.

After the fight with the enemy and the 9th corps an order was given for the 6th corps to make an attack on the left of the line and in front of Fort Fisher a line of battle was formed and the order to advance was given and soon our men had the entire line of rifle pits of the enemy. Over 600 prisoners was the result of this engagement, our loss is trifling.

Another fight took place at Hatchers' Run in which the second corps was engaged. The attack was made at about dark and over 400 prisoners fell into our hands making in all to-day 2,875, among whom are one hundred commissioned officers, the highest rank is Colonel.

Its reported that General Gordon was seen urging his men to fight and at times swearing at them for cowardice, ending with the exclamation: by God! just as I thought, these men won't fight, after which he was not seen. Lt Nye, of the 14th Mass. Battery, was killed. Six bullets were found to have entered his body.

A dispatch from Kinston says: "Sherman's fighting last Sunday and Monday was very severe and a continuous fight was between him and Johnston. The battle was set in array on two opposite ranges of hills on the south side of the Neuse, our troops facing the West. Both armies were defended by the earth-works, of those that Sherman had hastily constructed. The fight lasted two days during which, desperate charges were made on both sides. The rebels charged our line three times and five times our men made charges. The fighting on Sunday was mostly done by the 28th and 14th corps and on Monday the 17th and 18th corps came up and relieved them. Along the line from Fayetteville Sherman has had more or less fighting every day. The Comercial special says: 150 rebel officers were captured in the fight before Petersburg on Saturday and arrived there to-day.

New York, March 36th.

A bill is before the New York Legislature of the P. Mail Steamship Company asking authority to increase their issue of Stock.

New York, 24th.

The Herald's London correspondent states that within a couple of years the Prince Imperial of France is to make a royal visit to the United States and take a tour of the country. He is to be attended by a splendid fleet and two or three ministers of state and move about in brilliancy. The national Opinion, Prince Napoleon's organ commends Sherman's operations and tactics in the highest terms and accuses the rebels of having fired Charleston, it adds they have never been anything but rebels against a just Government, having for their watchword slaves and slavery.

New York, March 24th.

The Mexican news via Havana, contradicts the reported defection of Cortinas from the Imperial cause and says he was still devoted to Maximillian and engaged in suppressing Guerrillas. The troubles between the Emperor and the Church party do not abate. The Pope is said to have remonstrated against an Imperial order decreeing the liberty of religions opinions.

Local Matters.

CHARLEY SMITH, the pleasing Irish Comedian and Ethiopian delineator, will take a benefit at the Camp Theater to-morrow evening. Charley has been indefatigable in his exertions for the general entertainments given, from time to time, in our camp, and deserves the patronage of all. He is a good "End Man" in "Minstrelsy," sings ballads well, and is a first rate imitator of the sons of Erin. Of all the beneficiaries that have lately appeared on our stage, none are more entitled to the soldier's patronage than Charley Smith. Go everybody and stay at home nobody.

THE regular meeting of the Young Men's Literary Association will be held this evening, and some interesting exercises are expected. Members have the privilege of inviting their friends to be present.

MARTIN, the Wizard, "not dead," but as invincible as ever. His tricks of magical wonders were performed in camp on Saturday night. That egg "change-come change," is capital and makes everyone ask—wonder how he does it?

ROSENBAUM & Co. are fitting up a splendid meat market in camp. The repairs and general fixtures are nearly completed. They will, we understand, in a few days have a splendid display of meats of all kinds.

THE ball given by the Camp Quadrille Band, was one of the most social and pleasant parties we ever attended. We hope to see a renewal of their first effort. Allen spreads a first rate lunch.

WE would respectfully suggest to some of our city subscribers, that the first of the month is always an appropriate time to make things meet. We have to do it, and we request that others do it with us.

MORRIS & BERGER at their stand in the S. L. City Market, are doing a fine business these days.

TOMMY BRIGGS' ball comes off to-night at the Camp Theater.

WHAT THE REBEL WOMEN ARE COMING TO.—The Richmond Whig, in a flaring leader, says that in case the South is conquered the men can possibly get along by leaving for foreign countries, inducing the Yankees after a time to lift up the yoke of oppression, or dying with arms in their hands, But the fate of the women it deplores in gushes of rant about their being dragged to prison, overawed by negroes, outcasts from home, earning precarious livelihoods and forced at last, as a refuge from starvation, "to the embrace of a brutal Yankee husband." And then the lunatic raves after this fashion:

"Hurled from affluence to the very depths of poverty, cast down from the highest social position to the lowest walks of life, the next generation, nay, the young men now living, may behold the most cultivated and refined ladies of his acquaintance walking the streets of Richmond in rags, and begging the privilege of washing the shirts of Yankee Provost Marshals, who grant the boon, indeed, but couple with it coarse and profane jests at the virtue and haggard beauty of his wretched suppliants. Unhappy the soldier of General Lee's army who lives to see that day; how his blood will boil within his veins."

A PERSON asking a wit if the tolling of the bell did not remind him of his latter end, was answered, "No: but the rope puts me in mind of yours."

A MAN in Worcester, Mass., has raised four pounds of pure Java coffee, plump and of good flavor, the past season.
